National Bereavement Care Pathway Senior Project Officer - Scotland

January 2019

About Sands

Every single day in the UK, in spite of medical advances, 15 babies are stillborn or die within the first 28 days of life.

Sands, the stillbirth and neonatal death charity, is a well-established and widely respected national charity that:

- Supports anyone affected by the death of a baby through our Helpline and our 100 Groups nationwide across the 4 devolved nations.
- Works in partnership with health professionals to ensure that bereaved parents and families receive the best possible care by transforming the culture and practice of perinatal bereavement care through our accredited training programmes and resources.
- Promotes changes in care that could help to reduce the loss of babies' lives by funding high impact research projects that identify the causes of stillbirth and point to ways of reducing their incidence.

The charity has grown its income by over 40% since 2012 and, as part of its strategic plan to 2020, is focusing on how we can make the biggest difference to improving the care and support available to bereaved parents and families, and building on our success in raising awareness of the issues relating to stillbirth and neonatal death. This is an especially exciting time at Sands as we reposition to become the leading charity in the sector.

Sands has a network of over 100 Groups nationwide and the charity is now focusing on how it can best support the invaluable work that is being delivered in local communities to meet the needs of those who currently rely on those local services and who may sadly have to do so in the future.

About the role

Sands is looking for an experienced Project Manager to lead on the delivery of the National Bereavement Care Pathway (NBCP) project in Scotland. This pathway addresses the inequity of bereavement care offered to, and experienced by parents when a baby dies.

This is a high-profile and rewarding role which will involve delivering a NBCP in Scotland which is parent-centred and drives up standards of care, and supporting the delivery of other national programmes as appropriate.

With demonstrable experience of planning, delivering, managing and evaluating projects at a national level, you will be able to reach-out, engage and enthuse key stakeholders across Scotland.

You will have excellent verbal and written communication skills, including experience of drafting detailed plans, reports and briefings.

With outstanding team-working skills and a highly collaborative working style, you will ensure that the promotion of best practice in bereavement care for families is prioritised, embedded in national frameworks and rolled out across Scotland.

You will need to have good budget and time management skills, as well as the ability to identify and manage the risk and issue process.

More information on the National Bereavement Care Pathway can be found at www.nbcpathway.org.uk and www.sands.org.uk/professionals/projects-improve-bereavement-care/national-bereavement-care-pathway
